Old Eli Freshies Defeated by Princeton--Endurance Handicap to Highland Lad

YALE FRESHIES LOSE TO TIGERS

Princeton Cubs' Dashing Plays Hands Jolt to Old Eli Team.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 24.—Before the most brilliant military assem-blage in the Yale Bowl the Princeton Freshmen today upset all calculations by defeating Yale 1921, 9 to 7. As Princeton was beaten 24 to 6 by Har-vard, while Yale defeated Harvard 14

Princeton was beaten a to 0 by Harvard, while Yale defeated Harvard 14 to 0, today's game was begun with wagers favoring Yale to win.

Princeton's dashing playing swept Yale so close to the Eli goal that five times scoring was imminent. Twice the Tiger Cubs cashed their scoring checks. First in the second period when Harvey, the Princeton left end, seized the ball, which had been poorly passed into the back field, and tore by yards for tourchdown, and second in the final period when the Yale tackle kicked a difficult placement goal from the Yale 43-yard line. Harvey's run was easily the most spectacular feature of the game. As he picked up the ball, he was thrown by Quarter Back Neville, but struggled to his feet, wrenched himself free and eluded two Yale tacklers before he swept into an open field for his sensational score.

Lexington, Va., Nov. 24.-The Virginia Military Institute team was forced today to travel at ton speed in order to obtain the victory over the Gallaudet College team, from Washington, as the mutes presented a puzzling of-fense. The score was 19 to 3 in favor of the locals.

The visitors threatened, on three occasions, to cross the Cadeta' goal line. Kenneth Williams, the big half back of the visitors, who was their most consistent groundgainer throughout the contest, scored the visitors' points in the third, when he booted the ball over the crossbar from the 24-yard line.

Egan Made Possible 9-to-7

Egan delivered his contribution when, with his team one point behind as the result of his own failure to kick a goal following Gardiner's touchdown, he dropped back to the Columbia 20-yard line and booted the ball over the cross bar for the points

Knack Big Part in One's Success in Every Game

The Shooting Knack.

Knack is a big part of success in every game. It is, in a way, an unexplainable ingredient.

A man has it—or he hasn't it. There is no other answer. All the development in the world isn't going to make a star out of a man in any game where this knack is lacking. Development might make him a good man but not a star.

A friend of the late Capt. Guynemer, the great French aviator, was talking day or so ago about the heroic

"Guynemer was only a good average flyer," he said, "but one of the most wonderful air marksmen I have ever seen. With only slight training in this respect at the start of the war, he soon showed a wonderful knack at hitting flying targets in the sky. This ability seemed to be part of his makeup, and most of his success, outside of won-derful nerve, was due to his ability to

"There are others who have made fine records largely through their wonderful skill at handling machines in action. Guyemer didn't belong to this array. He could fly well enough, but there were others who could out-fly him. But no man flying above European soil, Frenchman, Briton or German, could shoot with Guynemer. of the most wonderful marksmen this war will ever show, if not the most wonderful of the lot.

"Now, only a small part of this Now, only a small part of this ability was due to instruction or practice. Others had had as much instruction and as much practice without being in his class. He just happened to have that knack of being able to gauge his target, to fudge the rest of it. Where others would need any number of fusilades to bring down a fee, you could generally depend on him to get his man early in the melee. He wasted fewer shots than any airman in the game.

Knack in Other Lines.

But it is a big part of the game. There are any numberf who, with all the coaching, practice and experience in the world, could never hope to reach great heights. There are others who acquire these heights almost with a rush. These latter have the

Take the case of Larry Lajoie in baseball. Larry says that he was able to bat about as well after he had been playing a short time as after he had known several years of experience. His fielding grace came in the same way. He was a born ball player. The whole scheme of things was easy and natural to him. He never had to work for what he got, or to work as eithers have worked. It was knack that did this, more than work. The average golf lover, if he gave twelve hours a day to the game, could never hope to be even a fair player from one October to the next May. It is just one of those hitr play around left end. Anderson things that can't be done where exceptional knack is missing.
